

SMASHING DEFEAT DEALT TO A MAJOR SEGMENT OF JAPANESE FLEET, WITH AT LEAST FOUR OF THE ENEMY SHIPS SUNK

No Ships Lost by U. S., Admiral Nimitz Reveals—Two Carriers and One Battleship Receive Superficial Damage—49 U. S. Aircraft Lost—In Sunday's Battle American Aircraft Achieves Greatest Ratio of Planes Ever Shot Down.

By International News Service
NEW YORK, June 22.—(INS)—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz in a pool broadcast heard by CBS today announced that a "smashing defeat" has been dealt to a major segment of the Japanese fleet, with at least four enemy ships sunk.

The text of the broadcast concerning the communiqué—"The United States Fifth Fleet has delivered a smashing defeat to a major segment of the Japanese fleet in a carrier-aircraft versus surface ships battle in the sea between the Marianas Islands and the Philippines. And what was left of the Japs when the battle was over ran away. Our planes have sunk four Jap ships, probably sank two more, probably damaged three and damaged five, a total of fourteen."

It was further revealed in a communiqué by Admiral Nimitz that in the great battle of Sunday, American aircraft achieved the greatest ratio of planes ever shot down—16 to 1. A total of 343 Jap planes were shot down against a loss of 21.

The broadcast continued—"We lost no ships. Two of our carriers and one of our battleships received superficial damage. In the second action we bombed four Jap carriers, with undetermined loss of Jap planes. We lost 49 of our aircraft, many of which landed in the water at night and from which an as yet undetermined number of personnel have been rescued. The enemy forces attack consisted of four or more battleships, five or six carriers, five fleet tankers, and various attached cruisers and destroyers, a large task force and a major segment of the Jap fleet.

"The engagement was broken off by the Japanese fleet which fled during the night toward the channel between Formosa and Luzon."

Lightning Causes Loss At Trumbauersville Farm

TRUMBIAUVILLE, June 22.—Lightning caused a fire on Monday evening at the farm of Frank Cishowski, with loss estimated at $5,000.

A barn, 300 laying hens, feed and farm machinery were destroyed. Trumbauersville and Quakertown Fire Companies responded, fighting the blaze for three hours, preventing the blaze from spreading to adjoining buildings.

Edwin R. Rummel, whose farm is directly across the road from the Cishowski farm, saw the lightning strike the metal roof of the two-story stone and frame building and called in the alarm.

The residence of James C. Bleam, W. Broad street, was also struck by lightning, but no damage done.

Admits Robbing Home On Newport Road

The police have caught up with the man hiring as a painter and then robbing the residences where he was employed to paint.

George Kelly, 26, Vine street, Philadelphia, is in the custody of the Philadelphia police and is said to have given a confession to many robberies of which he was suspected. One of the robberies which Kelly is said to have admitted is that of Alexander Pulia, Newport Road.

According to Chief Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, Kelly, who was employed by a contractor to paint at the Pulia residence, robbed the place of jewelry valued at $350. Two rings taken have been recovered.

It is stated that Kelly committed 35 robberies in Philadelphia and in addition many in the suburban area.

Kelly is said to have admitted that he posed as a house painter to cloak his activities as a burglar. He was held for further hearing June 30 by Magistrate Zweig at a hearing in the Philadelphia Central Police Court.

Police asked the adjournment to investigate complaints received against Kelly from Hartford, Conn., and Buffalo, N. Y., and Bucks County. They said Kelly has confessed looting more than 40 homes and stores of jewelry and other articles worth more than $20,000. His custom, he said, was to answer help wanted ads for painters, and while thus engaged to burglarize the houses.

Kulpsville Man Killed In Southern Air Crash

KULPSVILLE, June 22.—Cpl. William F. Dager, 19, was reported by the Army as killed in an airplane crash in North Carolina, in a message received by his parents, this week.

Details are lacking except that the plane went down on Green Knob Mountain, near Asheville, N. C. Dager was a turret gunner on a B-24 bomber, but whether it was a craft of this kind that carried him to his death was not revealed.

The accident happened while the plane was on a routine night mission.

Parents of the dead youth are Frank L. and Ada Bower Dager, of this place.

Dager was a graduate of Lansdale high school, and prior to entering the Army, was employed in the office of the Harleysville Mutual Casualty Company, Harleysville.

Dager was inducted into the Army on April 14, 1943, and sent to New Cumberland. Later he graduated from the airplane mechanics' school at Keesler Field, Miss., and from the flexible gunnery school at Laredo, Texas. His first regular assignment was to Westover Field, Mass., and from there he went to his last assignment, at Chatham Field, Ga.

ONE OF FIRST TO FLY OVER CAEN ON "D" DAY

Capt. C. J. Hawes, Doylestown, On Aerial Reconnaissance Mission

3 CAMERAS IN HIS P-38

DOYLESTOWN, June 22.—Captain Clark J. Hawes, former Doylestown High athlete, was one of the first Eighth Air Force photo pilots to fly an aerial reconnaissance mission over Caen, France, according to a letter received here by his mother, Mrs. Florence Hawes.

The 22-year old Doylestown pilot skinned over the area "D-Day" afternoon about 4 o'clock, with the three cameras in his speedy P-38 "Lightning" recording on 150-foot rolls of film the Allied offensive operations.

An hour earlier he had shot down the runway at the Eighth AAF Photo Group station for the take-off after a thorough briefing in operations and intelligence. His assignment was to cover important highways and railroads to determine whether the Nazi High Command was attempting to bring up armored reserves to back their faltering defense lines.

He flashed over the district at 1,600 to 2,000 feet going over the English Channel by Granville, and then circled back through the Fleurs district and then out over the invasion beachhead between Caen and Bayeux.

"Flares were burning all along the coast," he reported on his return. "At Caen and Fleurs fierce fires were burning following the night attacks by our bombers. Numerous marshalling yards and bridges and vital highway junctions had been blasted beyond use."

Captain Hawes writes that coming back over the invasion coast, he took a series of pictures of activities there.

June 7, the day after the initial invasion thrusts, Capt. Hawes completed a dangerous mission over the Orleans, Tours and Le Mans section southwest of Paris, taking back to his base valuable pictures of railroads, yards, junctions and bridges. These pictures play an important part in the strategy planned by Allied High Command since they disclose every movement the enemy makes and reveal any and all surprises he may have planned.

The area is not new to Capt. Hawes since he was one of the pilots selected many months ago for the difficult and dangerous task of photographing France for mapping purposes. The pictures he then took have since been the basis from which thousands of complete maps

James Work Again Heads Brewster Firm

James Work, Bucks County engineer who in seven years built a $3000 machine shop into a $21,000,000 aircraft plant only to be ousted from its control by the Navy, was back in the saddle again yesterday at the Brewster Aeronautical Corporation.

He was elected chairman of the board at a meeting of the directors in New York, succeeding Harry F. Morton, who resigned to return to the enterprises of Henry J. Kaiser.

Within a week the company will have turned out the last Vought Corsair fighter plane called for in its sole remaining contract with the Navy.

The company also faces the probability that the Navy will take its assembly plant at Johnstown on July 1, leaving Brewster with only an old automobile factory in Long Island City and four other old factory buildings which it rents.

With Morton went two other Kaiser production experts—Dan C. Peacock and Lamond Henshaw. Brewster henceforth will be directed by a five-man board which includes Preston Lockwood, president of the company, William Fulton Kurtz, William H. Harman and Zeus Soucek.

Fish Can't Live In Delaware, Says Report

An investigation by the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service has established scientifically that fish can't live in the polluted Delaware River.

The annual catch of Delaware River shad has been all but wiped out—it has declined nearly 14,900,000 pounds, or more than 99 percent, since 1899—and the Fish and Wildlife Service set out to determine why.

A preliminary report yesterday said the baby shad succumb to the sewage, chemical discharges from dye works and paper mills, cannery acids, and coal mine washings.

"Whereas spring freshets dilute pollution in the Delaware during the spring, when the adults ascend the river to their spawning grounds," wrote Louella E. Cable, scientist in charge of the investigation, "the river is at its lowest ebb in the fall, when the young run out to sea."

"Sometimes the dissolved oxygen content of the water in the Philadelphia-Camden area is zero at this time of year. When this is the case, the young could scarcely survive to reach the less polluted water of the bay."

DAY CARE CENTER MAY OPEN HERE BY MIDDLE OF JULY

Indications Point To Opening in Approximately Three Weeks

M A N Y INTERESTED

Await Approval of Budget; Then Teachers Will Be Given Contracts

Plans for the Day Care Center for children were discussed from several angles when a meeting was called at the community building, Bristol Terrace, No. 2, last evening.

Miss Lenore Berton, director of the Bureau of Child Care, Bucks County Council of Defense, spoke of the various aspects of the center. She informed that all indications point to opening of the center about mid-July. The group was likewise informed that the budget is now in process of being appropriated at Washington, D. C. As soon as the budget is cared for teachers will be awarded contracts, it is stated.

Several members of the Child Care Center committee were in attendance, also parents of young children interested in the project, and representatives of Bristol Township board of school directors.

Among those who were in attendance were Mrs. Marie Holland, Bristol office of the Red Cross; John Slemmer; Wayne Dockhorn, project service advisor of Bristol Terrace.

The main purpose of the meeting was to outline to interested parents plans for the center. Application blanks will be available shortly at the Terrace office, and they will also be distributed at various defense plants here. Those eligible to have children cared for will be those parents engaged in employment.

The Bristol Terrace House Committee served refreshments; and Bristol Child Welfare Committee members served as hostesses. Mrs. Pearl Brown being chairman of the latter committee.

Two Trucks Loaded With Waste Paper Overtown

DOYLESTOWN, June 22.—Members of the Doylestown Fire Company received a surprise addition to their collection of waste paper, this week, when they gathered up a large quantity off the street at South Clinton and West State streets, strewn about when two trucks of the Homastie Company, Trenton, N. J., overturned in that locality.

The two trucks, loaded with waste paper, were bound for Trenton about 7:30 o'clock, as the trucks turned into South Clinton street, from West State street, the one in the rear, driven by Harold B. Mount, Windsor, N. J., failed to make the curve and overturned opposite the Baptist Church. The driver of the truck in front, Fred C. Bohlinger, 16 Murray street, Trenton, turning to look back, lost control and plunged his truck into a tree.

Firemen were called early last evening to extinguish a burning awning in front of the store of L. L. Rubin, Mill street.

WHAT OUR BOYS ARE DOING TO WIN THE WAR

ALLIED FORCE ADVANCE PRESS HEADQUARTERS, Italy

June 22.—Private First Class William Wisemann, son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Wisemann, Woodbine and Finley avenues, Cornwells Heights, is doing guard duty with the regiment of Military Police that has made war-disrupted Naples into one of the most efficient ports in the world through its regulation of traffic in the city's maze of narrow alleys and congested streets.

Traffic MPs have had to untangle snarls of vehicles driven by soldiers of the American, English, French, Indian and Polish Armies while happy-go-lucky Neapolitans sauntered down the middle of the street. Despite their many problems these men have cut traffic accidents by 85 per cent, allowing more than 30,000 tons of war equipment to pass through the city daily.

Black Market operators find it so difficult to get illegal food past the law that they pay $3000 for a truckload of flour that formerly cost them $1000. Counterfeit rings have been broken and the regiment, in its thorough style, even operates improvised radio patrol cars.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

What Effect Willkie

Washington, June 20. NOW that Mr. Willkie's series of seven articles telling the Republican party what it must do to be saved have been concluded, it is in order to speculate upon their effect, if any. As a matter of fact, Mr. Willkie has not changed a thing.

THIS IS not because some of his stuff was not good. Much of it was. Much of it, too, will be incorporated in both the Republican and Democratic platforms, not because Mr. Willkie presented it but because nearly all thoughtful men in both parties have been thinking along those lines. It is not likely that the men who will dominate the Republican convention next week will be diverted from these lines by the somewhat patronizing manner in which Mr. Willkie points out their duty. Nor will they be coerced into accepting as a whole every Willkie suggestion for fear they may lose the Willkie support.

IT IS an interesting and significant fact that the applause for Mr. Willkie's pieces came largely from the fourth-term promoters and publicists, one of whom is Mrs. Roosevelt. That lady showered a number of kind words upon the author and wrote about some of his points in her most gracious manner. Others referred to Mr. Willkie as a "great liberal statesman." Those who know him best are well aware that there is nothing Mr. Willkie likes more than to be called "a great liberal statesman." From others—all fourth-termers—it was pointed out that the Republicans would deserve to lose if they failed to take Mr. Willkie's advice; that if they refused to follow his leadership, they could make no appeal to the "liberal elements" of the country.

GERMANY'S DILEMMA

With the coming of peace many war factors now obscure will be fully revealed. Those conversant with what may be termed inside facts will have opportunity to tell their stories, a "privilege" now denied by force of circumstance. This was the case following World War I, when there was a surfeit of books describing conditions behind the scenes during fighting days.

Among the more interesting volumes forthcoming will be those concerned with conditions in Germany during the past year, and throughout the weeks still remaining before final defeat. While other nations have stood up against tremendous odds, and suffered much, none has been in quite the position that Germany is today.

The German people, their homeland blasted, their armies decimated, will face retribution without a single friend at the peace table. Because of the barbarous tactics of their leaders, they will be hated by the world.

It is this realization that spurs them to fight on against increasing odds. It is fear of the terrible revenge which will be extracted that makes them susceptible to Goebbels' propaganda. Otherwise they would cast upon their accounts and realize that, starting in Africa, throughout Russia, then in Italy and now in France, there has progressed a campaign which portends little short of extermination.

When the story of World War II is written, interesting chapters will describe how a once great people became victim of the most colossal crime ever perpetrated.

NAMES THAT KILL

A theory advanced by an eastern medical scientist that many persons are being scared almost to death, literally, by high-sounding terms offers an interesting topic for further discussion. Even words can kill, he contends.

Pleading for a general practice of softening the results of diagnosis, especially to elderly persons, he would refrain from using designations which in their very sound serve to terrify.

Told he is suffering from arterio-sclerosis, the average patient is given a shock which is not conducive to his future health. Dr. Malford Thewlis, who explained his stand before a scientific society, declared no one should be told he is suffering from that disease without it being added that most elderly people are similarly afflicted and that in itself it is not immediately dangerous.

Cancer, he says, is the most dreaded word in the language. Tumor is far gentler. Announcement they are suffering from arthritis, a ruthless word, kills more people than the disease. People with dangerously high blood pressure should be told that pressure is above normal, as mere announcement of the truth might prove fatal.

Dr. Thewlis, it seems, subscribes to the theory that what people don't know won't hurt them.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

would, in fact, have branded themselves as reactionaries and reverted to the standards of the Harding days.

PERHAPS, there are some gullible enough not to recognize this kind of bunk for what it is, but most persons will see it as an obvious attempt upon the part of the fourth-termers to embarrass the Republicans and encourage the idea that Mr. Willkie may not support the nominee of their convention. Of course, no realist in politics has any doubt as to what Mr. Willkie will do in the end. He will support the Republican candidate—Governor Dewey—because there just will be nothing else for him to do. The Republicans already are committed in their Mackinac conference to the great principle of full post-war international co-operation, which Mr. Willkie has proclaimed all over the land as of overshadowing importance. Governor Dewey personally has taken an unequivocal stand on this subject, fully as forthright as Mr. Willkie's own.

ON DOMESTIC affairs there seems little difference between Mr. Willkie and any of the other leading Republicans, except that it is charged his disposition is slightly more New Dealish than theirs. Some think he has been led in this direction largely by his curious desire to be thought well of by the professional liberals, though none of these was with him in 1940 and none would have been with him had he been nominated against Mr. Roosevelt this time. Aside from that, however, neither the Republican candidate nor the Republican platform will provide Mr. Willkie with an excuse to bolt on a matter of principle. That can be set down as sure. And unless his conscience should be involved, there is no way for him to justify failure to support. Certainly his own candidacy bars him from accepting the fourth-term argument about changing horses in the middle of the stream.

—O—

MR. WILLKIE will not find after Chicago that the Republicans have adopted his platform wholly, but he will find that the platform is one to which he can raise slight objection and one upon which if he had been nominated he easily could—and would—have stood. It is true he does not like Governor Dewey personally, but neither does he like Mr. Roosevelt personally. And there are a good many more people he does not like personally these days, including some who were very strongly for him when he ran in 1940. In this campaign he will have only one alternative to wholehearted support of the Republican candidate and that is grudging and reluctant support. And if he dilly dallies too long, it will not make a great deal of difference so far as the result is concerned which he chooses.

IT, OF COURSE, is unthinkable that after aspiring for the nomination and choosing it he should entirely withhold support from the nominee. That would stamp him as one of the worst scoundrels and poorest sports in political history. No clear-headed person has ever thought he would do that, which makes long delay in coming out in-

Children Will EAT Milk

Many children refuse to drink milk, and thus become real problems to their parents.

Why not let them EAT milk? Few children refuse ice cream, rennet-custards, or other light milk desserts. Most of them like fried beef, scalloped potatoes, and similar main-course dishes containing liberal quantities of milk. Even the most obstinate child so far as milk is concerned, will EAT several of these milk dishes.

Especially does this apply to dessert—a course no child will refuse. He may push aside his glass of milk. He may even refuse scalloped potatoes. But place a dish of rennet-custard on his plate and he will not only EAT his milk, but clamor for more. Really, there's no problem at all.

Here is a mint-flavored, milk dessert recipe for your early consideration:

Mint Rennet-Custard
½ cup mint jelly
2 cups milk, not canned
1 package orange rennet powder
Whipped cream (or other light topping)
Fresh mint
Set out 4 or 5 individual dessert

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

IT'S NO TRICK, these days to fence vegetable or flower gardens. Simply buy attractive picket fences, knocked down, assembled and drive or set them into the ground. That knowing first-floor Garden Dept. in the Snellenburg Store has excellent wood picket fences as follows: 6-ft. length, 18-inch high pickets, $1.49; 6-ft. length, 24-inch pickets, $1.79. A good plywood 4-ft. length of 14-inch pickets costs only 59c. The taller picket sections can also be used to make play-pens or play-spaces for very small children or puppies.

RICHER GARDENS can be had this summer by more careful cultivating of the soil. Victory or flower gardens—and I hope you have both—it makes no difference. Insure right cultivation and back-savory by investing in a $7.95 14-in. wheel cultivator with plough grips. Eliminates weeds, too! Snellenburg's Garden Dept. (3rd fl.)

WEDDING OR SHOW gifts of the glamorous "Cook-Serve" ware are being enthusiastically welcomed. That which the Snellenburg China and Glass Dept. is showing just now is a rich cream, lined and topped with luscious pink. These pottery dishes and casseroles and skillets are very artistically shaped. The ware can be used either in the oven or—if asbestos pads are used under the pieces—over the flame.

"Cook-Serve" looks charming on the table, so that things cooked in them can be served piping hot from the oven. A "Cook-Serve" shower would delight any engaged girl, and one piece or a "set" would please a bride. 6 and 8 in. open oval casseroles cost 45c and 75c respectively. Round, pink-lined 2-qt. casseroles sell for $1.25, pie plates for 65c, loaf "pans" for 75c, skillets for $1.10. See the "Cook-Serve" display table! (3rd fl.)

TOGETHER-FUN. That's what Croquet set means to a family. And croquet sets have not been any too easy to find. But the Snellenburg Sporting Goods Dept. has cannily gathered together an array of croquet sets ranging in price from $2.45 to $8.95. All are well made and come in portable racks. Young and old can play croquet. Games that all members of a family can enjoy together are of great psychological importance in these days of juvenile delinquency. (3rd fl.)

have been made. Now that the invasion has started, those maps are vital to the great offensive to crush the Nazi war machine.

For many months he and fellow photo pilots of the Eighth Air Force photographed bomb damage and ferreted out new military, maritime and industrial targets for the "Big B's". Now that "D-Day" is history, they are busy spying on every little move the enemy makes to hamper the drive toward Berlin.

67 Bucks Co. Herds High In Butterfat

The association completed its 21st year with 82 whole-year herds. The total number of cows for all or part of the year was 2859. In addition, five herds with a total of 154 cows were in the association part of the year, and are not included in the report. In the report Mr. Sidelmann stated 3994 cows had been under test the past year.

Records for the past year reveal an average of 2253.40 cows produced an average of 9067 pounds of milk and 356.3 pounds of butterfat. Forty-six cows produced 3000 pounds of butterfat or more over a given time under test. Topping this list is a registered Guernsey, "Robin's Run Ida," belonging to Clarence H. Smith and son, Wycombe. Under a test a few days less than 12 years, this cow produced 5443.5 pounds of butterfat and 109.645 pounds of milk.

Taking second honors in this classification is J. Howard Cliffe's registered Guernsey, "Greenfield Matilda," which produced 5069.9 pounds of butterfat. Mr. Cliffe, of near Ivyland, got a production of 102,288 pounds of milk from this cow while she was under test for almost 12 years.

Producing 4875.6 pounds of butterfat and 100.895 pounds of milk while under test for ten years and 214 days, a grade Guernsey belonging to Williams & Harley, New Hope, rated third for butterfat production.

Individual records of the cows show that "Belle Crest Kent Blanche," a registered Holstein belonging to George H. Hunsberger, Plumsteadville, took high honors for milk and butterfat production during the past year. This cow had to her credit 20,453 pounds of milk and 796.11 pounds of butterfat. "Evergreen's Hopeful Rima," a registered Guernsey belonging to Philip W. Smith, of near Wycombe, took second place for butterfat production. This animal produced 788.1 pounds of butterfat and 15.576 pounds of milk.

Third place for butterfat production went to a registered Guernsey, "Camp Discharge Caroline," belonging to Philip J. Bauer, Spring House. This cow produced 787.3 pounds of butterfat and 15.692 pounds of milk.

Second high for milk production during the year was a registered Holstein, "Weonland Belle Orme-burgh Rex," belonging to Milton Satterthwaite. This cow produced 18,155 pounds of milk and 609 pounds of butterfat. "Neshaminy Dean Woodson Beryl," a registered Holstein, a cow in the registered herd at George School, ranked third place for milk production during the year with 17,543 pounds of milk and 571 pounds of butterfat to her credit.

exploded near him while he was on ship-board. He was taken to a base hospital for treatment, and was able to return to this country recently. Miller was away from his base for 2½ months, he being delayed for hospitalization. This was his first trip overseas, he having entered the service in October.

He has two brothers in the navy, William Miller, S 1/c, who was recently discharged from a hospital in New Guinea where he was treated for eye and ear injuries; and George Miller, S 1/c, who is also somewhere in the Southwest Pacific.

Salvation Army Exceeds Quota in County methods. At the Victory Luncheon of the Campaign, Brigadier Samuel Hepburn turned over $100,000 to Headquarters for use among United States service men abroad. American soldiers returning home from foreign service report that the "Sallies," as the Salvation Army workers are affectionately known, are to be found everywhere. They seem to provide a bit of home away from home and as the religious atmosphere of the Salvation Army is characteristic of it, service men naturally seek its huts, hostels, canteens, etc., whenever they can.

The successful campaign in the greater Philadelphia area also assures the Salvation Army that its work among service men in this area will be continued. Its fixed canteens at railroad stations, near the Navy Yard, on Keyburn Plaza in Philadelphia, and elsewhere, as well as its score of mobile canteens, are assured of being maintained. Likewise the success of the campaign provides funds for the continuation of the normal civilian relief service for which the Salvation Army is so well known.

PREPARE SPINACH DIFFERENT WAYS TO APPEAL TO ALL

By Mrs. Mary Jacoby Fleetham
(Home Economics Representative)
Fresh spinach, plentiful in the markets now, can be prepared in different ways to tempt even the finicky eater of the family, says Mrs. Mary Jacoby Fleetham, home economics extension representative, Bucks County.

Some persons have disliked spinach because it was not cleaned properly. As soon as spinach is brought home, wash carefully and remove any bruised leaves and tough stems, she directs. Rinse in warm water first and then several times in cold water until perfectly clean. Lift spinach out of the water each time rather than draining water off. Drain and store in a covered dish in the refrigerator.

The young, tender spinach leaves can be served raw in a salad. Shred and add to any combination of raw vegetables, such as leaf lettuce, curly endive, Chinese cabbage, shredded cabbage, radishes, cucumbers, onions, or peppers. Mix thoroughly with French dressing just before serving.

Mustard sauce adds a new flavor to cooked spinach. Mix equal parts of melted butter and prepared mustard with grated or chopped onion. Mix with spinach that has been cooked with just the water clinging to it after washing.

Panned spinach with bacon is easily prepared. Cook several slices of bacon, cut into quarter-inch strips in a large frying pan. Remove bacon and add clean, drained spinach to the bacon fat. Cover and cook until spinach is wilted. Stir occasionally. Garnish with pieces of bacon.

Soroptimists of Bucks Co. Aid War Prisoners

DOYLESTOWN, June 22 — Because of a change in the dates for the annual installation of officers, the Soroptimist Club of Bucks County had two presiding officers at the monthly business meeting this week, Miss Verna McClary, the immediate past president, and Mrs. Dorothy Kraft, the newly installed presiding officer.

It was announced by Past President McClary that the club had paid $202 to the Prisoner of War fund for the benefit of an American prisoner of war in the hands of the enemy. The fund provides a few of the necessities not issued to prisoners, and is administered by the International Red Cross. The amount given by the club will take care of a prisoner for a year.

An informal meeting with a box supper will be held at the home of Miss Grace Corliss, Spring Valley, on July 24.

Miss McClary and Mrs. Kraft will represent the club at the bi-annual conference of the American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs to be held in St. Louis, Mo., on July 11, 12 and 13. Mrs. Annabelle Stokes will also attend the conference.

Eleven members of the club will attend the installation banquet of the Soroptimist Club of Trenton, N. J., on June 26, and Miss McClary and Miss Agnes McGuire will attend a meeting of the Germantown club. Four members are expected to attend an installation meeting at Reading on June 28.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)
Pastor
Bristol Presbyterian Church

Eternal God, our Heavenly Father, we pray that Thou wilt make our strength great when our burdens are heavy; that each of us may have a consciousness that God thinks of him, and overrules all things for his good. May the sweetness of Thy Presence and the light and the joy which spring from Thy heart be the portion of each of us. May we be more and more devoted in prayer; more and more earnest for the salvation of men; more and more vigilant in looking after those who are around us; more and more desirous of helping one another and sharing the burdens of those who are weaker than ourselves. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with a burning and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Rohm & Haas Team Has Won Six Games and
Lost One

The Rohm and Haas girls clinched the first half championship of the Bristol Girls' Softball League by scoring a shutout victory over the Hunter ladies last evening on the Rohm and Haas field. Final score was 7-0.

The chemical mixers won six games and lost one. There is still one more game on the schedule but regardless of the outcome of this contest, the Rohm and Haas team is "in."

Stella Klemczak hurled the Maple Beach aggregation to the triumph and in doing so limited the munition girls to a trio of hits, made by the Vitale sisters and Bartz.

The winners had a total of 23 hits and were led by L. Bachofer who had four out of four. Playing her second game of the season, Thelma Roberts was very impressive with her fielding at the initial back and aided in the offensive assault by getting three out of three.

VET FOR PIRATES - - By Jack Sords

FRED OSTERMUELLER, VETERAN SOUTHPAW BOUGHT FROM SYRACUSE IN AN EFFORT TO BOLSTER PITTSBURGH'S WEAK MOUND STAFF

"Free political action cunningly directed along the lines of mass devotion to One Man's Indispensability strips itself of the very meaning of freedom as the men of labor will discover if the regimented policies of the New Deal are allowed to become the fixed law of the land. This country is in a bad way if only one man out of 130,000,000 persons is qualified to plan and direct our destinies.

"Experience teaches us that government-owned and operated business is not a cure for unemployment or economic insolvency. Government domination of industry will lead inevitably to the same system of slave labor employed by Hitler. The economic theories of the New Deal failed utterly to solve the question of unemployment for 10,000,000 Americans prior to Pearl Harbor. The New Deal had nothing constructive to offer in the way of economic progress. Its tax-and-spend-and-elect doctrine succeeded only in running up an incredible Federal deficit. Still, the New Deal made sure that for every dollar expended a vote came home to roost.

"Mr. Hillman's desire to implement the economic life of the nation by participation in its political affairs might be accepted seriously if uttered by anyone other than himself. Mr. Hillman is one of those presumptuous leaders of labor who cares not a tinker's hoot for the economic life of American workers so long as the Hillmans, Dubinskys and others feeding off the sweat of these men have their abnormal love for power gratified by Presidential recognition of their vote-herding talents.

"Mr. Hillman's insinuation that no Republican presidential candidate could possibly live up to the standards set by the Fourth Term gentleman should be interpreted as a compliment instead of rebuff. Republicans believe that any governmental program based on the shifting sands of New Deal standards will strike post-war America a death blow. A Fourth Term victory, placing private enterprise at the complete mercy of bureaucratic incompetents, will plunge industry into chaos and ruin, loosen a flood of unemployment upon the land and betray the millions of men and women in military service who are counting on us to keep our domestic economy out of the hands of political brigands.

"If these are the things Mr. Hillman and the Communist wing of the CIO Political Action Com-

DODGERS TO HOLD TRYOUT CAMP AT TRENTON FIELD

Opportunity To Be Given
Young Players July
5th to July 8th

BOYS 16 YEARS AND UP

Must Show Sufficient Ability To Be Signed to Contracts To Get Expenses

TRENTON, N. J., June 22—A tryout camp offering young players an opportunity to determine whether they have the ability to play baseball professionally will be conducted at Dunn Field here by the Brooklyn Dodgers from Wednesday, July 5, through Saturday, July 8.

The tryouts were announced today by Branch Rickey, Jr., director of minor league clubs for the Dodgers, with whom the Trenton Packers of the Interstate League have a working agreement.

Boys 16 or older are invited to report at Dunn Field for trials, Rickey said. To receive tryouts they need only to present themselves at the field Wednesday, July 5, at 9 a. m., bringing their shoes, gloves and uniforms. No fee is charged; however, out-of-town boys must finance their trips to Trenton.

and living expenses while here.

Boys showing sufficient ability to be signed to contracts will be refunded expenses incident to attending the trials.

Rickey urged that boys should not be deterred from attending tryouts because they expect shortly to be in the armed services. The Dodgers, he said, are interested in determining the ability of such boys now, looking toward post-war baseball operations.

SMASHING DEFEAT DEALT TO A MAJOR SEGMENT OF JAPANESE FLEET, WITH AT LEAST FOUR OF THE ENEMY SHIPS SUNK

No Ships Lost by U. S., Admiral Nimitz Reveals—Two Carriers and One Battleship Receive Superficial Damage—49 U. S. Aircraft Lost—In Sunday's Battle American Aircraft Achieves Greatest Ratio of Planes Ever Shot Down.

By International News Service
NEW YORK, June 22.—(INS)—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz in a pool broadcast heard by CBS today announced that a "smashing defeat" has been dealt to a major segment of the Japanese fleet, with at least four enemy ships sunk.

The text of the broadcast concerning the communique—"The United States Fifth Fleet has delivered a smashing defeat to a major segment of the Japanese fleet in a carrier-aircraft versus surface ships battle in the sea between the Marianas Islands and the Philippines. And what was left of the Japs when the battle was over ran away. Our planes have sunk two more, probably damaged three and damaged five, a total of fourteen."

It was further revealed in a communique by Admiral Nimitz that in the great battle of Sunday, American aircraft achieved the greatest ratio of planes ever shot down—16 to 1. A total of 343 Jap planes were shot down against a loss of 21.

The broadcast continued—"We lost no ships. Two of our carriers and one of our battleships received superficial damage. In the second action we bombed four Jap carriers, with undetermined loss of Jap planes. We lost 49 of our aircraft, many of which landed in the water at night and from which an as yet undetermined number of personnel have been rescued. The enemy forces attack consisted of four or more battleships, five or six carriers, five fleet tankers, and various attached cruisers and destroyers, a large task force and a major segment of the Jap fleet. "The engagement was broken off by the Japanese fleet which fled during the night toward the channel between Formosa and Luzon."

Lightning Causes Loss At Trumbauersville Farm

TRUMBBAUERSVILLE, June 22.—Lightning caused a fire on Monday evening at the farm of Frank Cishowski, with loss estimated at $5,000.

A barn, 300 laying hens, feed and farm machinery were destroyed. Trumbauersville and Quakertown Fire Companies responded, fighting the blaze for three hours, preventing the blaze from spreading to adjoining buildings.

Edwin R. Rummel, whose farm is directly across the road from the Cishowski farm, saw the lightning strike the metal roof of the two-story stone and frame building and called in the alarm. The residence of James C. Bleam, W. Broad street, was also struck by lightning, but no damage done.

Admits Robbing Home On Newport Road

The police have caught up with the man hiring as a painter and then robbing the residences where he was employed to paint.

George Kelly, 26, Vine street, Philadelphia, is in the custody of the Philadelphia police and is said to have given a confession to many robberies of which he was suspected. One of the robberies which Kelly is said to have admitted is that of Alexander Pulia, Newport Road.

According to Chief Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, Kelly, who was employed by a contractor to paint at the Pulia residence, robbed the place of jewelry valued at $350. Two rings taken have been recovered.

It is stated that Kelly committed 35 robberies in Philadelphia and in addition many in the suburban area. Kelly is said to have admitted that he posed as a house painter to cloak his activities as a burglar. He was held for further hearing June 30 by Magistrate Zweig at a hearing in the Philadelphia Central Police Court.

Police asked the adjournment to investigate complaints received against Kelly from Hartford, Conn., and Buffalo, N. Y., and Bucks County. They said Kelly has confessed looting more than 40 homes and stores of jewelry and other articles worth more than $20,000. His custom, he said, was to answer help wanted ads for painters, and while thus engaged to burglarize the houses.

EMPLOYEES OF TWO FIRMS PURCHASE BONDS TO AMOUNT OF $5,375 AS THE BOND WAGON PAYS VISITS IN BENSALEM TWP. SECTION

EDDINGTON, June 22.—Carmen Torrente's fifth war loan bond wagon paid a visit to Stone and Webster Construction Co. which company have been engaged in erecting the new Publicker Alcohol Co. plant, State Road. The visit was made yesterday and the group succeeded in selling $3,400 in bonds to their employees, and interesting the Publicker employees enough that they joined in the proceedings and purchased bonds to the tune of $1,975.

Employees rallied round the elaborately decorated stage, erected by the management, when Miss Nan Jones' nimble fingers played patriotic melodies. Mr. Torrente, well-known maestro of the Lido Venice, Andalusia, opened the rally by introducing the guest speaker, a wounded veteran from Valley Forge Hospital, Peter Petroski, who had served with the American Air Force as radio operator. He chose as his topic one seldom heard or thought about—the life of our army in Iceland, their trials, tribulations, and "C" rations, with a few amusing anecdotes thrown in.

BENSALEM BOND SALE FOR WEEK IS $23,000

Gillette, $1,375; Upper Bensalem, Mrs. Joseph Groener, $500; industries, $3,125.

Although these figures are still a long way from the flattering quota set by the War Finance Committee for Bensalem, canvassers have been working long and cheerfully securing these sales and hope that even better results will be evident in the coming weeks of the campaign.

Kulpville Man Killed In Southern Air Crash

KULPSVILLE, June 22.—Cpl. William F. Dager, 19, was reported by the Army as killed in an airplane crash in North Carolina, in a message received by his parents, this week.

Details are lacking except that the plane went down on Green Knob Mountain, near Asheville, N. C. Dager was a turret gunner on a B-24 bomber, but whether it was a crash of this kind that carried him to his death was not revealed.

The accident happened while the plane was on a routine night mission.

Parents of the dead youth are Frank L. and Ada Bower Dager, of this place.

Dager was a graduate of Lansdale high school, and prior to entering the Army, was employed in the office of the Harleysville Mutual Casualty Company, Harleysville.

Dager was inducted into the Army on April 14, 1943, and sent to New Cumberland. Later he graduated from the airplane mechanics' school at Keesler Field, Miss., and from the flexible gunnery school at Laredo, Texas. His first regular assignment was to Westover Field, Mass., and from there he went to his last assignment, at Chatham Field, Ga.

Surviving, in addition to the parents, are a brother and a sister.

ONE OF FIRST TO FLY OVER CAEN ON "D" DAY

Capt. C. J. Hawes, Doylestown, On Aerial Reconnaissance Mission

3 CAMERAS IN HIS P-38

DOYLESTOWN, June 22.—Captain Clark J. Hawes, former Doylestown High athlete, was one of the first Eighth Air Force photo pilots to fly an aerial reconnaissance mission over Caen, France, according to a letter received here by his mother, Mrs. Florence Hawes.

The 22-year old Doylestown pilot skinned over the area "D-Day" afternoon about 4 o'clock, with three cameras in his speedy P-38 "Lightning," recording on 150-foot rolls of film the Allied offensive operations.

An hour earlier he had shot down the runway at the Eighth AAF Photo Group station for the take-off after a thorough briefing in operations and intelligence. His assignment was to cover important highways and railroads to determine whether the Nazi High Command was attempting to bring up armored reserves to back their faltering defense lines.

He flashed over the district at 1,600 to 2,000 feet going over the English Channel by Granville, and then circled back through the Fleurs district and then over the invasion beachhead between Caen and Bayeux.

"Fires were burning all along the coast," he reported on his return. "At Caen and Fleurs fierce fires were burning following the night attacks by our bombers. Numerous marshalling yards and bridges and vital highway junctions had been blasted beyond use."

Captain Hawes writes that coming back over the invasion coast, he took a series of pictures of activities there.

June 7, the day after the initial invasion thrusts, Capt. Hawes completed a dangerous mission over the Orleans, Tours and LeMans section southwest of Paris, taking back to his base valuable pictures of railroads, yards, junctions and bridges. These pictures play an important part in the strategy planned by Allied High Command since they disclose every movement the enemy makes and reveal any and all surprises he may have planned.

The area is not new to Capt. Hawes since he was one of the pilots selected many months ago for the difficult and dangerous task of photographing France for mapping purposes. The pictures he then took have since been the basis from which thousands of complete maps

James Work Again Heads Brewster Firm

James Work, Bucks County engineer who in seven years built a $3000 machine shop into a $21,000,000 aircraft plant only to be ousted from its control by the Navy, was back in the saddle again yesterday at the Brewster Aeronautical Corporation.

He was elected chairman of the board at a meeting of the directors in New York, succeeding Harry F. Morton, who resigned to return to the enterprises of Henry J. Kaiser.

Within a week the company will have turned out the last Vought Corsair fighter plane called for in its sole remaining contract with the Navy.

The company also faces the probability that the Navy will take its assembly plant at Johnsville on July 1, leaving Brewster with only an old automobile factory in Long Island City and four other old factory buildings which it rents.

With Morton went two other Kaiser production experts—Dan C. Peacock and Lamond Henshaw. Brewster henceforth will be directed by a five-man board which includes Preston Lockwood, President of the company; William Fulton Kurtz, William H. Harman and Zeus Soucek.

Fish Can't Live In Delaware, Says Report

An investigation by the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service has established scientifically that fish can't live in the polluted Delaware River.

The annual catch of Delaware River shad has been all but wiped out—it has declined nearly 14,000,000 pounds, or more than 99 percent, since 1899 and the Fish and Wildlife Service set out to determine why.

A preliminary report yesterday said the baby shad succumb to the sewage, chemical discharges from dye works and paper mills, canneries, and coal mine washings.

"Whereas spring freshets dilute pollution in the Delaware during the spring, when the adults ascend the river to their spawning grounds," wrote Louella E. Cable, scientist in charge of the investigation, "the river is at its lowest ebb in the fall, when the young run out to sea."

"Sometimes the dissolved oxygen content of the water in the Philadelphia-Camden area is zero at this time of year. When this is the case, the young could scarcely survive to reach the less polluted water of the bay."

DAY CARE CENTER MAY OPEN HERE BY MIDDLE OF JULY

Indications Point To Opening In Approximately Three Weeks

MANY INTERESTED

Await Approval of Budget; Then Teachers Will Be Given Contracts

Plans for the Day Care Center for children were discussed from several angles when a meeting was called at the community building, Bristol Terrace, No. 2, last evening.

Miss Lenore Berton, director of the Bureau of Child Care, Bucks County Council of Defense, spoke of the various aspects of the center. She informed that all indications point to opening of the center about mid-July. The group was likewise informed that the budget is now in process of being appropriated at Washington, D. C. As soon as the budget is cared for teachers will be awarded contracts, it is stated.

Several members of the Child Care Center committee were in attendance, also parents of young children interested in the project, and representatives of Bristol Township board of school directors.

Among those who were in attendance were Mrs. Marie Holland, Bristol office of the Red Cross; John Slemmer; Wayne Dockhorn, project service advisor of Bristol Terrace.

The main purpose of the meeting was to outline to interested parents plans for the center. Application blanks will be available shortly at the Terrace office, and they will also be distributed at various defense plants here. Those eligible to have children cared for will be those parents engaged in employment.

The Bristol Terrace House Committee served refreshments; and Bristol Child Welfare Committee members served as hostesses. Mrs. Pearl Brown being chairman of the latter committee.

Two Trucks Loaded With Waste Paper Overturn

DOYLESTOWN, June 22.—Members of the Doylestown Fire Company received a surprise addition to their collection of waste paper, this week, when they gathered up a large quantity off the street at South Clinton and West State streets, strewn about when two trucks of the Homasite Company, Trenton, N. J., overturned in that locality.

The two trucks, loaded with waste paper, were bound for Trenton about 7:30 o'clock, as the trucks turned into South Clinton street, from West State street, the one in the rear, driven by Harold B. Mount, Windsor, N. J., failed to make the curve, and overturned opposite the Baptist Church. The driver of the truck in front, Fred C. Bohlinger, 16 Murray street, Trenton, turning to look back, lost control and plunged his truck into a tree.

Firemen were called early last evening to extinguish a burning awning in front of the store of I. L. Rubin, Mill street.

WHAT OUR BOYS ARE DOING TO WIN THE WAR

ALLIED FORCE ADVANCE PRESS HEADQUARTERS, Italy, June 22.—Private First Class William Wisemann, son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Wisemann, Woodbine and Finley avenues, Cornwells Heights, is doing guard duty with the regiment of Military Police that has made war-disrupted Naples into one of the most efficient ports in the world through its regulation of traffic in the city's maze of narrow alleys and congested streets.

Traffic MPs have had to untangle snarls of vehicles driven by soldiers of the American, English, French, Indian and Polish Armies while happy-go-lucky Neapolitans sauntered down the middle of the street. Despite their many problems these men have cut traffic accidents by 85 percent, allowing more than 30,000 tons of war equipment to pass through the city daily.

Black Market operators find it so difficult to get illegal food past the law that they pay $3000 for a truckload of flour that formerly cost them $1000. Counterfeit rings have been broken and the regiment, in its thorough style, even operates improvised radio patrol cars.

GERMANY'S DILEMMA

With the coming of peace many war factors now obscure will be fully revealed. Those conversant with what may be termed inside facts will have opportunity to tell their stories, a privilege now denied by force of circumstance. This was the case following World War I, when there was a surfeit of books describing conditions behind the scenes during fighting days.

Among the more interesting volumes forthcoming will be those concerned with conditions in Germany during the past year, and throughout the weeks still remaining before final defeat. While other nations have stood up against tremendous odds, and suffered much, none has been in quite the position that Germany is today.

The German people, their homeland blasted, their armies decimated, will face retribution without a single friend at the peace table. Because of the barbarous tactics of their leaders, they will be hated by the world.

It is this realization that spurs them to fight on against increasing odds. It is fear of the terrible revenge which will be exacted that makes them susceptible to Goebbels' propaganda. Otherwise they would cast upon their accounts and realize that, starting in Africa, throughout Russia, then in Italy and now in France, there has progressed a campaign which portends little short of extermination.

When the story of World War II is written, interesting chapters will describe how a once great people became victim of the most colossal crime ever perpetrated.

NAMES THAT KILL

A theory advanced by an eastern medical scientist that many persons are being scared almost to death, literally, by high-sounding terms offers an interesting topic for further discussion. Even words can kill, he contends.

Pleading for a general practice of softening the results of diagnosis, especially to elderly persons, he would refrain from using designations which in their very sound serve to terrify.

Told he is suffering from arterio-sclerosis, the average patient is given a shock which is not conducive to his future health. Dr. Malford Thewlis, who explained his stand before a scientific society, declared no one should be told he is suffering from that disease without it being added that most elderly people are similarly afflicted and that in itself it is not immediately dangerous.

Cancer, he says, is the most dreaded word in the language. Tumor is far gentler. Announcement they are suffering from arthritis, a ruthless word, kills more people than the disease. People with dangerously high blood pressure should be told that pressure is above normal, as mere announcement of the truth might prove fatal.

Dr. Thewlis, it seems, subscribes to the theory that what people don't know won't hurt them.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

would, in fact, have branded themselves as reactionaries and reverted to the standards of the Harding days.

PERHAPS, there are some glib enough not to recognize this kind of bunk for what it is, but most persons will see it as an obvious attempt upon the part of the fourth-termers to embarrass the Republicans and encourage the idea that Mr. Willkie may not support the nominee of their convention. Of course, no realist in politics has any doubt as to what Mr. Willkie will do in the end. He will support the Republican candidate—Governor Dewey—because there just will be nothing else for him to do. The Republicans already are committed in their Mackinac conference to the great principle of full post-war international co-operation, which Mr. Willkie has proclaimed all over the land as an overshadowing importance. Governor Dewey personally has taken an unequivocal stand on this subject, fully as forthright as Mr. Willkie's own.

ON DOMESTIC affairs there seems little difference between Mr. Willkie and any of the other leading Republicans, except that it is charged his disposition is slightly more New Dealish than theirs. Some think he has been led in this direction largely by his curious desire to be thought well of by the professional liberals, though none of these was with him in 1940 and none would have been with him had he been nominated against Mr. Roosevelt this time. Aside from that, however, neither the Republican candidate nor the Republican platform will provide Mr. Willkie with an excuse to bolt on a matter of principle. That can be set down as sure. And unless his conscience should be involved, there is no way for him to justify failure to support. Certainly his own candidacy bars him from accepting the fourth-term argument about changing horses in the middle of the stream.

MR. WILLKIE will not find after Chicago that the Republicans have adopted his platform wholly, but he will find that the platform is one to which he can raise slight objection and one upon which he had been nominated he easily could—and would—have stood. It is true he does not like Governor Dewey personally, but neither does he like Mr. Roosevelt personally. And there are a good many more people he does not like personally these days, including some who were very strongly for him when he ran in 1940. In this campaign he will have only one alternative to wholehearted support of the Republican candidate and that is grudging and reluctant support. And if he dilly dallies too long, it will not make a great deal of difference so far as the result is concerned which he chooses.

IT, OF COURSE, is unthinkable that after aspiring for the nomination and missing it he should entirely withhold support from the nominee. That would stamp him as one of the worst scoundrels and poorest sports in political history. No clear-headed person has ever thought he would do that, which makes long delay in coming out unfortunate from his standpoint. Most of his friends feel that way about it. As to his platform suggestions certainly his party could be more courageous and more concrete on two domestic issues. One is union labor; the other, taxes. On the latter subject, which is concededly pretty vital, no one could be more vague and evasive than Mr. Willkie. Presumably he still favors $15,000,000,000 increased taxes, but he has yet to say how he proposes to raise the money, which, after all, is a rather important point.

HULMEVILLE

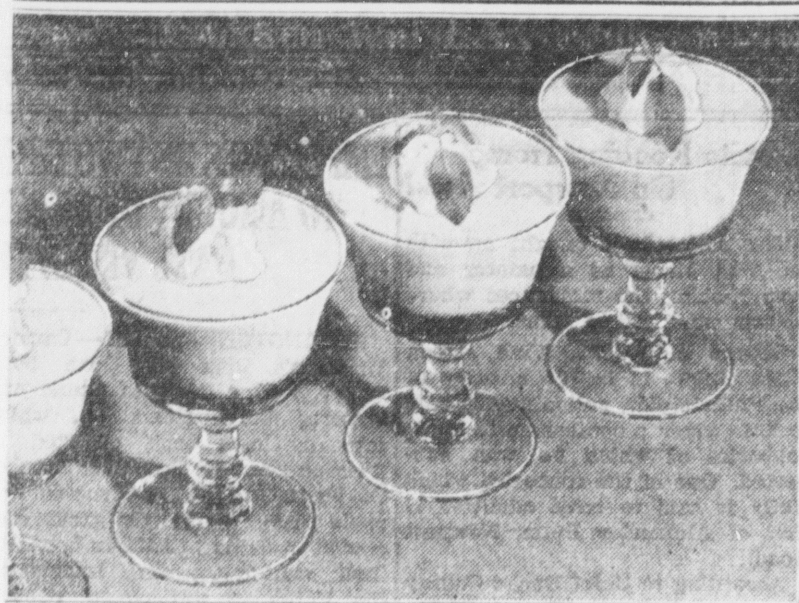

Mrs. Richard A. Hopkins and Miss Irene Hopkins spent last week as guests of Mrs. Hopkins' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Young, Clearfield County. Capt. Richard A. Hopkins is now stationed in Newfoundland.

Staff Sgt. Kinbel Faust has arrived in India, his mother, Mrs. Samuel K. Faust, has been informed.

The Hulmeville Brownies enjoyed at the Zoological Gardens, Philadelphia, the group partaking of a picnic lunch. The following made the trip: "Sallie" McLain, Joyce Balderston, Barbara Shetline, "Betty" Lott, Goll, "Betty" Burns, "Mattie" Reese, Ruth, Alice and "Sallie" Hall; Lois Hiltchener, Phyllis Blessing, Edith Martindell, Anna May Gross, Ann Montilla, Mrs. Louis Goll, Jr., Mrs. William Shetline, Mrs. William Blessing, Mrs. Montilla, and Mrs. Clarence Balderston.

Mrs. Kenneth Comly and Mrs. Samuel Everitt were hostesses on Tuesday evening to members of the Ladies Aid Society, of Neshaunim Methodist Church. The meeting was held at the Everitt home in

Children Will EAT Milk

Many children refuse to drink milk, and thus become real problems to their parents.

Why not let them EAT milk? Few children refuse ice cream, rennet-custards, or other light milk desserts. Most of them like fried beef, escalloped potatoes and similar main-course dishes containing liberal quantities of milk. Even the most obstinate child so far as milk is concerned, will EAT several of these milk dishes.

Especially does this apply to dessert—a course no child will refuse. He may push aside his glass of milk. He may even refuse escalloped potatoes. But place a dish of rennet-custard on his plate and he will not only EAT his milk but clamor for more. Really, there's no problem at all.

Here is a mint-flavored, milk dessert recipe for your early consideration:

Mint Rennet-Custard
1/2 cup mint jelly
2 cups milk, not canned
1 package orange rennet powder
Whipped cream (or other light topping)
Fresh mint
Set out 4 or 5 individual dessert

glasses. With a fork, whip up the mint jelly; then drop a portion into the bottom of each dessert glass. Warm milk slowly, stirring constantly. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When COMFORTABLY WARM (110° F.) not hot, remove at once from heat. Add rennet powder and stir quickly until dissolved—no more than 1 minute. Pour quickly, while still liquid, into individual glasses. Do not move until firm—about 10 minutes. Chill.

Just before serving, garnish each rennet-custard with a puff of whipped cream and a sprig of fresh mint. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

If no mint is obtainable, or if mint is not relished, use a cherry, strawberry, slice of peach or any other seasonable topping.

If heavy cream is unavailable for your whipped cream, try beating one cup chilled light cream with two tablespoons powdered sugar until frothy. Add 2 to 4 teaspoons lemon juice, and beat until stiff. It is best to make this just before serving. One-half the above quantities will probably give you enough whipped cream for this particular dessert.

Middletown Township. Twenty-one minutes were read by Miss Grace H. Hillek. The social period was conducted by Mrs. Edward Davis, who had arranged a program in honor of the American flag. Refreshments of strawberry ice cream, home-made cake, pretzels, nuts and candy were served.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

IT'S NO TRICK, these days to fence vegetable or flower gardens. Simply buy attractive picket fences knocked down, assemble and drive or set them into the ground. That knowing first-floor Garden Dept. in the Snellenburg Store has excellent wood picket fences as follows: 6-ft. length, 18-inch-high pickets, $1.49; 6-ft. length, 24-inch pickets, $1.79. A good plywood 4-ft. length of 14-inch pickets costs only 59c. The taller picket sections can also be used to make play-pens or play-spaces for very small children or puppies.

RICHER GARDENS can be had this summer by more careful and more regular culturing of the soil. Victory or flower gardens—and I hope you have both—it makes no difference. Insure right cultivation and back-savory by investing in a $7.95 14-in. wheel cultivator with plough grips. Eliminates weeds, too! Snellenburgs Garden Dept. (3rd fl.).

WEDDING OR SHOW-ER gifts of the glamorous "Cook-Serve" ware are being enthusiastically welcomed. That which the Snellenburg China and Glass Dept. is showing just now is a rich cream, lined and topped with luscious pink. These pottery dishes and casseroles and skillets are very artistically shaped. The ware can be used either in the oven or—if asbestos pads are used under the pieces—over the flame. "Cook-Serve" looks charming on the table, so that things cooked from them can be served piping hot from the oven. A "Cook-Serve" shower would delight any engaged girl, and one piece or a "set" would please a bride. 6 and 8 in. open oval casseroles cost 45c and 75c respectively. Round, pink-lined 2-qt. casseroles sell for $1.25, pie plates for 65c, loaf "pans" for 75c, skillets for $1.10. See the "Cook-Serve" display table! (3rd fl.)

TOGETHER—FUN. That is what a croquet set means to a family. And croquet sets have not been any too easy to find. But the Snellenburg Sporting Goods Dept. has cannily gathered together an array of croquet sets ranging in price from $2.45 to $8.95. All are well made and come in portable racks. Young and old can play croquet. Games that all members of a family can enjoy together are of great psychological importance in these days of juvenile delinquency. (3rd fl.)

NEWEST "SHORT-ALLS." Some of the cleverest sportswear of the season. These glorified "over-all" versions of the now indispensable "shorts" are de-lighting the summer fashion world. One style authority describes them as "suspended sissie shorts"—little-girl shortness even in the larger sizes. The Snellenburg Sports Wear Dept. has particularly clever short-all model in heavy cotton twills, one—at $2.98—in solid blue, brown or white; a gayer model, with red, white and blue stripes, is priced at $3.98. A bib-like "gob" front on each is another new touch. Wear with blouses or polo shirts. (2nd fl.)

TRAVELING COMPANION! It really is just this clever little wallet-like case of games for service folks. It's the most complete and compact game-kit I've ever seen. When folded it measures about 4 by 5 in. and can easily be concealed in a pocket. The uniformed girls and boys can take it for amusement on train, truck, airplane or boat, and one of the places it will be most useful is in a foxhole! In brown or blue cases. Priced at $3.50, and packed for mailing. All you do is write the address and stick on the postage. Weighs under eight ounces, so it is O. K. by the Gov. ernment and needs no special request. What games does it contain? Playing cards, regular dice, put-and-take dice, checkers, folding checker board, pencil, score pad, etc. Snellenburgs Men's Furnishings Dept. (1st fl.)

CHARMING RENEW-AL of dining-room chairs can be brought about by fitting the chairs with summer seat covers of artistic ticking. These covers come in sets of six at $3.95, five for side chairs and one for the larger armchair seat. There is a choice of rose on rose, powder on powder, or green on green. Ties anchor the covers to the chairs. Not only will the covers conceal shabby seats, but they can be used to protect new chairs. Excellent investment. Snellenburg Upholstery Dept. (4th fl.)

HIS APPEARANCE will be enhanced by wearing a pair of well-cut "boxer" bathing trunks. The Snellenburg Sporting Goods Dept. has handsome ones in gabardine—blue, white, tan, or maroon. Moreover, they have change pockets! Buy him two. Sizes 30 to 38. Only $2.95. (3rd fl.)

NORTH to DANGER by TOM GILL

SYNOPSIS

Seeking to escape mysterious pursuers, Colin Rae, of the Hendrik's Bay Company, takes refuge in the hotel room of an attractive young woman in Winnipeg, Canada. He denies he is a criminal, and promises to get her plane transportation to Learmonth where they have a mutual friend, Rodney Selkirk. She conceals Colin, bravely baring the self-styled "police" from her room. Then they observe a small, bespectacled man standing across the street. "Once I heard him called the most dangerous man in Canada," said Colin. The girl identifies herself as Irina Meredith, they leave the hotel separately, meet later, and taxi to a local airport where they find Blair Benedict near her small airplane. There is a brief, joyous reunion between Colin and Irina before the plane takes off with Blair at its wheel. En route to the airport, Colin had told Irina that the so-called "most dangerous man" was Jonathan Dove who conducted two Indian schools, one in Learmonth, the other in Wolverine.

CHAPTER THREE

Down beneath that smoky haze where Colin's eyes were watching, two men sat in a narrow office, examining with absorbed attention a pile of red fox skins. Across the office door were the words, in modest letters, J. Holmes, Furs; and the actual smell of pelts hung heavy on the air.

Close together the two men sat, one of them large and swarthy, a lead cigar in his mouth. The other, slight of figure, and wearing gold-rimmed spectacles, kept turning a faded derby in his never-resting hands. A strangely expressionless face: the skin drawn tight, like parchment, and behind it, as if from behind a mask, the mild gray eyes looking out.

The big man shook a pelt, causing the thick red fur to gleam. "Prime, eh? Lovely! And our fall catch will find the best market in years." He looked toward the closed door, then asked casually, "What about Wolverine?"

The smaller man had taken a sudden interest in the markings of the pelt. "My work in Wolverine is done. The place is crowded with mounted pelts. Learmonth comes next. The reservation has four thousand Cree Indians, and the stage is set. Give me a little time—they move slowly, my barbarians—but when trouble comes, what can the Canadian Government do?"

"They can call in more mounted police."

"Exactly. Call them down from the bay—and leave its south shores unprotected."

The big man laid the pelt before him. "The Party relies on you absolutely, Johann. So do I." He glanced at his companion's hands, then quickly looked away. "But some of the council suspect you of a certain—ah, a certain eagerness for violence."

Stiffly the impassive face jerked in a smile. "You talk like a sentimental American. Since when has the Party frowned on violence?"

"But we want no more premature deaths—as at Wolverine."

"There might be one I cannot help."

"That Hendrik's Bay fellow?"

"That Hendrik's Bay fellow may know too much. He is clever and without fear. Also, I think, a little crazy—a bad combination to play with." Again the lips trembled in what may have been a smile. "So if he persists in interfering, I cannot guarantee—" big man picked up the skin of a blue fox and almost lovingly ran his fingers over the long guard hairs.

"What a beauty! Look, Dove. Can you send me anything better from Learmonth?"

Quietly as a cat Dove had risen. "I may send you something even better from Learmonth."

The two men smiled into each other's eyes.

High over fields of fresh-fallen snow Blair's plane was heading straight into the north, following the Winnipeg River, then angling westward to the lake. They passed the Narrows, and soon the last village fell away, the last road was crossed, and ahead lay leagues of rivers, lakes, low ridges, and muskeg swamps—bleak, desolate and fur animals years ago. Why, there wasn't even a doctor there until Rodney brought up Blair's father, Dr. Benedict.

Colin's hand pointed to the lake-dotted country beneath. "This land we're flying over is good for one thing and one thing only—fur. It's been a fur country for two hundred and fifty years. It's too cold for farms, the trees are too gnarled for timber, but it's the greatest breeding ground for fur animals in the world. Take them away, and every white man and Indian here would be doomed to migrate or starve. Human life would stop. Selkirk saw all that from the first; he put his foot down on the white trappers' using poison and snares; he made them respect the Indian game reserves.

"Twenty years ago he stood

Irina quietly announced, "I am going to marry Rodney Selkirk."

unending, stretching to the frozen waters of the bay.

From the controls Blair glanced back at Colin. "That's Behrens River under us. Two more hours and you'll be home."

"Home! Rae drew a deep breath and saw Irina watching him. "Learmonth is my first memory," he told her. "There's not a lake or a river I haven't paddled or trapped in."

"You're a trapper?"

"No. I worked with the Hendrik's Bay Company there until two years ago."

"Hendrik's Bay. That's why you're a friend of Rodney Selkirk. Tell me about him."

alone, laughed at as an impractical dreamer. Today there are more fur animals in the forests around Learmonth than ever; Indians don't starve in the winter, or die like flies from disease. And all because of one man—Rodney Selkirk."

Irina's eyes were on him. "You're really fond of Rodney, aren't you?"

"I should be. He did more for me than anyone ever did. He helped me get an education, and when I was fed up with the outside world he brought me back and gave me faith again—faith in this north country."

"That's interesting. It's hard to believe you were once fed up with the world. I know that feeling myself. But you are too healthy for such experience. Tell me about it."

"It's too long a story—and too long ago."

"Promise sometime you'll tell me."

"Perhaps."

Through the silence that followed, Irina watched the winding lake shore; then a quietly she said, "I am going to marry Rodney Selkirk."

Rae started. For a second he did not want to look at her, and his eyes sought the window while the motor droned on. He knew he should say something; but, when he did, he knew he had blundered.

FAMED HOTEL GIVES TIRED "YANKS" REST

War Time is Out for Battle-Weary Men at Italian Resort

THE FOOD IS "TOPS"

By Rita Hume
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

A FIFTH ARMY REST CAMP, Italy, June 22—(INS)—This is a famed luxury hotel, catering to the most exclusive resort trade in the world.

Not the kings and queens. Not the befurred and bejeweled cosmopolites of the world. Just a bunch of tired, dusty, foot-weary, front-line soldiers.

At nine this morning the bar trade started. There's been singing and gay chatter filling that corner of the lobby all day. A sign in the bar says:

"This is your hotel. About the only thing you can't do here is drive a jeep through the lobby."

Just now three dust-caked, lanky second lieutenants slogged in and draped themselves over the receiving desk. Their eyelashes were white with dust from their jeep trip. They had eager, hopeful grins. Before they got the question out the Red Cross girl said:

"The room clerk's right over there. Your rooms have private baths. There's plenty of hot water. You ring a bell if you want breakfast in bed. And, oh yes, leave your shoes in the hall for the boy to shine."

She watched them as they tramped off cheerily, adding:

"Sometimes they're here for three days. Sometimes five. Maybe they'll get to stay for seven. Before they go back to the front we'll probably know their life history."

They will follow the pattern of every man who hits the hotel. First will be a hot bath. Then they'll want to sleep between sheets with a real mattress. No shell fire, no slit trenches, no mud.

After that most of them want to get drunk. Just quietly drunk. Not so much that they won't enjoy the long meal hours, the stringed orchestra in the many windowed dining room overlooking the sea. Giannetta singing her pulsing Italian arias, or the Tarantella dancers.

At night there'll be dancing. The hotel always has a few nurses on leave. A surprising number of civilians from the village are former American residents. They volunteer as hostesses.

Biggest luxuries are the meal hours—and the meals. Late breakfasts, long lunches, longer dinners. The food is tops.

"We have to stretch a point there," said Major Theodore A. Klein, of Jackson Heights, New York City, who's proud of the famous sweet rolls, the white-coated waiters, the dinner wines that make the dining room like something out of this world.

An old 45th Division man with the soldier's point of view, Klein started operating the hotel at the behest of Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark. Since last October he has handled 5,500 clients, 90 per cent of whom are officers of front line units, mostly combat companies and battalions. He probably can boast more than you can mail than any other hotel operator in the world.

Valet, barber and other services are run by the original Italian staff. The resort hotel, world famous, is now enjoying its first good season since 1937. Meals and everything, 75 cents a day.

There also is a PX. The "cherry" of the Post Exchange service, its manager, Pfc. C. M. Boelter, of Le Sueur, Minn., calls it. Hours? There's no sense opening early. No one's up. Mid morning? No good either. Everybody's off on a trip to Capri, or some other spot. Afternoon? Too busy at the bar. Just before dinner's the best time. "We sort of suit our hours to the trade," said Boelter.

Entertainment is the job of two American Red Cross girls: petite Louise Groody, of 16 Park Ave., New York, and Lucille Brown of Deborah, Ia., former assistant dean of women at Kansas State Agricultural College and board member of Northwestern University.

But no Red Cross cherry is their job! At first it was hard to figure out why everyone who took the assignment ended up a physical wreck. On the surface it's a soft hostess berth in a story book hotel.

But men back from the front are not exactly easy to handle. One glimpse of a sympathetic feminine American face and they're ready to unload every pent up emotion. Every detail of how the buddy next to them was killed, of the bloody night they almost didn't get back. It's all recounted.

Reaction from a terrific strain makes them almost a little wacky, even a little belligerent. Especially if you turn them down on a "come on and have a drink."

"But you can see how long we'd last on our jobs that way," was Mrs. Brown's parting shot before she was dragged off by three "anxious-to-talk-to-someone-American" men.

Some react quite differently. They don't want to talk to anybody or see anybody. Just sleep, read, write letters and sleep.

Three days isn't much, nor is seven. It's hardly a respite from death at the front. But they go back with shined shoes, clean uniforms, scrubbed faces. But with more than that, as time and again the men themselves express it before they leave.

They go back, perhaps tired, perhaps rested. But at least with the feeling that someone in the world cared enough to pull them out of the mud, the muck and the horror and give them a taste of something they had almost forgotten they were fighting for.

FINAL SCORE IS 7 TO 0

Rohm & Haas Team Has Won Six Games and
Lost One

The Rohm and Haas girls clinched the first half championship of the Bristol Girls' Softball League by scoring a shutout victory over the Hunter lassies last evening on the Rohm and Haas field. Final score was 7-0.

The chemical mixers won six games and lost one. There is still one more game on the schedule but regardless of the outcome of this contest, the Rohm and Haas team is "in."

Stella Klemczak hurled the Maple Beach aggregation to the triumph and in doing so limited the muni- tion girls to a trio of hits, made by the Vitale sisters and Bartz.

The winners had a total of 23 hits and were led by L. Bachofer who had four out of four. Playing her second game of the season, Thelma Roberts was very impressive with her fielding at the initial back and aided in the offensive assault by getting three out of three.

"Free political action cunningly directed along the lines of mass devotion to One Man's Indispensability strips itself of the very meaning of freedom as the men of labor will discover if the regimented policies of the New Deal are allowed to become the fixed law of the land. This country is in a bad way if only one man out of 130,000,000 persons is qualified to plan and direct our destinies.

"Experience teaches us that government-owned and operated business is not a cure for unemployment or economic insolvency. Government domination of industry will lead inevitably to the same system of slave labor employed by Hitler. The economic theories of the New Deal failed utterly to solve the question of unemployment for 10,000,000 Americans prior to Pearl Harbor. The New Deal had nothing constructive to offer in the way of economic progress. Its tax-spend-and-elect doctrine succeeded only in running up an incredible Federal deficit. Still, the New Deal made sure that for every dollar expended a vote came home to roost.

"Mr. Hillman's desire to implement the economic life of the nation by participation in its political affairs might be accepted seriously if uttered by anyone other than himself. Mr. Hillman is one of those presumptuous leaders of labor who cares not a tinker's hoot for the economic life of American workers so long as the Hillmans, Dubinskys and others feeding off the sweat of these men have their abnormal love for power gratified by Presidential recognition of their vote-herding talents.

"Mr. Hillman's insinuation that no Republican presidential candidate could possibly live up to the standards set by the Fourth Term gentleman should be interpreted as a compliment instead of rebuff. Republicans believe that any governmental program based on the shifting sands of New Deal standards will strike post-war America a death blow. A Fourth Term victory, placing private enterprise at the complete mercy of bureaucratic incompetents, will plunge industry into chaos and ruin, loosen a flood of unemployment upon the land and betray the millions of men and women in military service who are counting on us to keep our domestic economy out of the hands of political brigands.

"If these are the things Mr. Hillman and the Communist wing of the CIO Political Action Com-

TRENTON, N. J., June 22—A tryout camp offering young players an opportunity to determine whether they have the ability to play baseball professionally will be conducted at Dunn Field here by the Brooklyn Dodgers from Wednesday, July 5, through Saturday, July 8.

The tryouts were announced today by Branch Rickey, Jr., director of minor league clubs for the Dodgers, with whom the Trenton Packers of the Interstate League have a working agreement.

Boys 16 or older are invited to report at Dunn Field for trials, Rickey said. To receive tryouts they need only to present themselves at the field Wednesday, July 5, at 9 a. m., bringing their shoes, gloves and uniforms. No fee is charged; however, out-of-town boys must finance their trips to Trenton.

and living expenses while here. Boys showing sufficient ability to be signed to contracts will be refunded expenses incident to attending the trials.

Rickey urged that boys should not be deterred from attending tryouts because they expect shortly to be in the armed services. The Dodgers, he said, are interested in determining the ability of such boys now, looking toward post-war baseball operations.
